Elections - Historical Notes

The following is a listing of acts for Montgomery County which affected the elective process, but which have been superseded or repealed. They are listed here for historical and reference purposes. Also referenced below is an act which repeals prior law without providing new substantive provisions.

1. Acts of 1796, Chapter 10, divided Tennessee into two separate sections, the Holston Section, which was composed of the Washington and Hamilton Districts and the Cumberland Section, which consisted of the Mero District. Each of these Districts would elect a Representative to the United States Congress, the election taking place on the first Thursday in August, 1796.
2. Acts of 1796 (2nd Sess.), Chapter 4, named the electors from each County who would vote in the selection of a President and Vice President of the United States. The convening of the electors from the Mero District would take place in Nashville.
3. Acts of 1798, Chapter 16, established twelve Senatorial Districts and twenty-four Representative Districts in the General Assembly of the State of Tennessee according to its Constitution. The Mero District was awarded four Senators and eight Representatives. Montgomery County would elect one Representative alone and one Senator along with Robertson County.
4. Acts of 1799, Chapter 46, provided that three Presidential electors would be chosen from the State, one each from the Washington, Hamilton, and Mero Districts. The Act named the people in each County who would meet to choose an Elector. In Montgomery County the duty was given to Duncan Stuart, John Hogan, and Haydon Wells.
5. Acts of 1803, Chapter 24, fixed the number of Presidential Electors to be selected in the State at five. The fifth District contained the Counties of Davidson, Williamson, Robertson, Montgomery, Stewart, Rutherford, and Dickson who would elect one Elector jointly. The votes from this District would be counted at Nashville in Davidson County on the Monday following the election.
6. Acts of 1803, Chapter 79, determined that the State would send three Representatives to the Congress of the United States, one each from the Eastern Division composed of the Counties of the District at Washington, the Middle Division, composed of the Counties of the Hamilton District, and the Western Division, composed of the Counties of the Mero District.
7. Acts of 1805, Chapter 64, stated that the enumeration of citizens which was required by a former public act had been completed and the results reported to the General Assembly. The State would have thirteen Senatorial Districts. Robertson, Dickson, Montgomery, and Stewart Counties composed one district and would elect one State Senator among them, the polls to be counted at Clarksville. Of the twenty-six Representatives in the House, Montgomery and Stewart Counties would elect one.
8. Acts of 1807, Chapter 74, established five Districts for the Electors of the President and the Vice President of the United States. The fifth District contained the Counties of Davidson, Robertson, Montgomery, Stewart, Dickson, Williamson, Maury, Robertson, Bedford, and Hickman. Votes would be tabulated at Nashville.
9. Acts of 1812, Chapter 5, increased the number of Presidential Electoral Districts in the State from five to eight. The Eighth District was made up of the Counties of Montgomery, Stewart, Robertson, Dickson, Hickman and Montgomery which together would elect one Elector. Votes would be counted and recorded at Charlotte in Dickson County.
10. Acts of 1812, Chapter 27, established six United States Congressional Districts, in Tennessee, doubling Tennessee's representation in Washington. The Sixth Congressional District was composed of the Counties of Montgomery, Robertson, Dickson, Humphreys, Hickman, Stewart, Maury and Giles.
11. Acts of 1812, Chapter 57, increased the membership of the General Assembly of Tennessee to twenty Senators and forty representatives. Montgomery, Stewart, and Humphreys Counties would elect one Senator and Montgomery County, alone, would elect one Representative.

 25. Acts of 1842 (Ex. Sess.), Chapter 1, divided the State into twenty-five Senatorial Districts and fifty Representative Districts for the General Assembly. The Counties of Montgomery and Robertson comprised one of the Senatorial Districts and Montgomery County, alone, would elect two Representatives.
 26. Acts of 1842 (Ex. Sess.), Chapter 7, established eleven U. S. Congressional Districts in the State. It assigned Montgomery, Robertson, Stewart, Dickson, Humphreys, Benton, and Henry Counties to the Ninth District.
 27. Acts of 1851-52, Chapter 196, formed ten U. S. Congressional Districts in the State. The Eighth District contained the Counties of Montgomery, Davidson, Robertson, Stewart, and Dickson.
 28. Acts of 1851-52, Chapter 197, apportioned the State for representation in the General Assembly. Montgomery County would elect one Representative alone. Montgomery, Davidson and Robertson Counties constituted one Senatorial District.
 29. Public Acts of 1865, Chapter 34, set up eight U. S. Congressional Districts in Tennessee. The Sixth District contained the Counties of Montgomery, Lawrence, Wayne, Hardin, Decatur, Perry, Lewis, Maury, Hickman, Humphreys, Dickson, and Stewart.
 30. Public Acts of 1869-70, Chapter 105, authorized a referendum to be held on the proposed calling of a Constitutional Convention which would amend, revise, or form a new Constitution for the State. The ballots would be simply a "For" or "Against" proposition. There would be seventy-five delegates to the convention and each county would have the same number of delegates as it had Senators and Representatives in the General Assembly. The delegates elected would convene in Nashville on the second Monday in January, 1870.
 31. Public Acts of 1871, Chapter 146, apportioned the representation in the Tennessee General Assembly based on the 1870 Census. Montgomery County would elect one Representative alone,

- and elect one Representative with Stewart County. Montgomery County would be a part of the Seventeenth State Senatorial District along with the Counties of Robertson and Stewart.
32. Acts of 1872 (Ex. Sess.), Chapter 7, divided Tennessee into nine U. S. Congressional Districts, based on the 1870 Census. The Seventh District was made up of the Counties of Montgomery, Houston, Stewart, Humphreys, Benton, Henry, Carroll, Henderson, Decatur, Perry, Hardin, and McNairy.
 33. Public Acts of 1873, Chapter 27, increased the number of U. S. Congressional Districts in Tennessee from nine to ten and reassigned counties accordingly. The Sixth U. S. Congressional District included the Counties of Montgomery, Davidson, Cheatham, Dickson, Humphreys, Houston, and Stewart.
 34. Public Acts of 1881 (Ex. Sess.), Chapter 5, established the number of State Senators at thirty-three and the number of Representatives at ninety-nine.
