Education/Schools - Historical Notes

Special School Districts - Bradford Special School District

1. Private Acts of 1925, Chapter 467, purported to abolish all special school districts in Gibson County and transfer control over all schools in those districts to the Gibson County Board of Education. The act purported to repeal all laws creating special school districts except those parts levying a tax to pay outstanding bonds and debt, and declared all outstanding bonds and indebtedness of the special school districts to be valid and binding obligations of those districts. The act enumerated those districts in which taxes were retained and referenced the acts authorizing such taxes. Private Acts of 1939, Chapter 548, amended Private Acts of 1925, Chapter 467, to provide that any monies remaining after payment of all bond indebtedness was to be spent by the County Board of Education for the use of schools in the special school district. Private Acts of 1925, Chapter 467, was declared unconstitutional by the Tennessee Supreme Court in Melvin v. Bradford Special School District, 212 S.W.2d 668 (Tenn. 1948). Private Acts of 1925, Chapter 467, as it related to Bradford Special School District, was repealed by Private Acts of 1992, Chapter 251 (reproduced hereinabove).
2. The constitutionality of Private Acts of 1975, Chapter 95 (reproduced hereinabove), was challenged in Partee v. Pierce, 553 S.W.2d 602 (Tenn. App. 1977). Private Acts of 1977, Chapter 126, renewed the authority for the $1,600,000 bond issue in the event that the act was finally declared invalid. Private Acts of 1975, Chapter 95, withstood constitutional challenge in Partee v. Pierce, 553 S.W.2d 602 (Tenn. App. 1977). The court elided section 5 of the act which required approval of the act by local referendum, and found that section 4 requiring such approval for the issuance of school bonds was constitutional. Both Sections 4 and 5 of the act were deleted by Private Acts of 1980, Chapter 270.
3. In Partee v. Pierce, 589 S.W.2d 919 (Tenn. App. 1979), a second attempt to block the bond issue and resultant taxes, Bradford Special School District was held to have been in continuous existence since its inception in 1917, and that the District never transferred administration of the school system to the Gibson County Board of Education.
4. Private Acts of 1980, Chapter 270, for which no approval was required, amended Private Acts of 1975, Chapter 95 (reproduced above), by reducing the amount of bond authorization from $1,600,000 to $800,000, increasing the allowable interest rate from 8% to 10%, authorizing the issuance of bond anticipation notes, reducing the allowable tax rate from $1.75 to $1.15 per $100, and by deleting Sections 4 and 5. Sections 4 and 5 provided for referendum approval of the act and of the issuance of the bonds. The bond issue had been approved by local referendum.
5. Private Acts of 1984, Chapter 240, amended Private Acts of 1917, Chapter 153 (reproduced hereinabove). Section 2 of the 1984 act, which required approval of the voters in the district before the act became effective, was declared unconstitutional by the Tennessee Supreme Court in Gibson Coughly School District v. Palmer, 691 S.W.2d 544 (Tenn. 1985), but the court elided the section requiring local approval and the act remained effective.

Special School Districts - Gibson County Special School District

1. Acts of 1907, Chapter 288, created "Gibson School District" out of a portion of the 18th Civil District of Gibson County.
2. Private Acts of 1917, Chapter 392, created "Gibson County Special School District" out of a portion of the 2nd and 18th Civil Districts, including the town of Gibson. A school tax of 500 on every $100 of taxable property was assessed.
3. Public Acts of 1920 (Ex. Sess.), Chapter 22, was enacted to change the tax rate in areas where the legislature had levied a specific tax rate for specific purposes in a limited territory, including special school districts. The act exempted Private Acts of 1917, Chapter 392 (Gibson Special School District) from its provisions.
4. Private Acts of 1925, Chapter 467, as amended by Private Acts of 1939, Chapter 548, purported to abolish all special school districts in Gibson County, but retained a tax of 200 on every $100 of taxable property within Gibson County Special School District. This act was later held unconstitutional in Melvin v. Bradford Special School District, 212 S.W.2d 668 (Tenn. 1948).

Special School Districts - Kenton Special School District

1. Acts of 1905, Chapter 293, established Kenton High School District No. 32, in the Tenth Civil District of Gibson County.

2. Private Acts of 1921, Chapter 463, is referenced in later amendatory acts as being House Bill 1062, passed March 24, 1921, and approved March 28, 1921, creating the Kenton Special School District. However, Private Acts of 1921, Chapter 463, is an act relative to fishing with baskets for suckers and carp in Warren and Grundy Counties. Our research has revealed no act which was passed in 1921 relative to the Kenton Special School District. The elusive 1921 act was amended by Private Acts of 1923, Chapter 480, to authorize the issuance of interest-bearing coupon bonds by the Kenton Special School District in the amount of $7,500. Both of these acts were repealed by Private Acts of 1941, Chapter 164. (The status of the law on suckers and carp in Warren and Grundy Counties remains uncertain.)
3. Private Acts of 1925, Chapter 467, as amended by Private Acts of 1939, Chapter 548, purported to abolish all special school districts in Gibson County, but retained a tax of 150 on every $100 of taxable property within Kenton Special School District. This act was later held unconstitutional in Melvin v. Bradford Special School District, 212 S.W.2d 668 (Tenn. 1948).
4. Private Acts of 1927, Chapter 539, re-established the Kenton Special School District after the attempted abolition of all special school districts in Gibson County by Private Acts of 1925, Chapter 467, assumed the indebtedness of the $7,500 school bonds which had been issued, and set the tax rate at 200 on every $100 of taxable property, with an additional 100 tax to pay principal and interest on the bonds. When (sic) the school bonds had been fully retired, the 1927 act was amended by Private Acts of 1937, Chapter 412, to eliminate the special tax which had been imposed to pay the principal and interest on the school bonds. The 1927 act was further amended by Private Acts of 1941, Chapter 164, to reduce the tax rate from 200 to 50 on every $100 of taxable property. All school taxes within the District were eliminated when Section 7 of the 1927 act was deleted in its entirety by Private Acts of 1945, Chapter 202.

Special School Districts - Milan Special School District

1. There were two attempts to re-establish the Milan Special School District since the passage of the original act in 1945. Private Acts of 1957, Chapter 372, and Private Acts of 1967-68, Chapter 400, failed to gain local approval and never took effect. However, Private Acts of 1994, Chapter 136, purported to repeal Section 6 of Private Acts of 1957, Chapter 372, as amended by Private Acts of 1981, Chapter 182, and any other act amendatory thereto; Section 9 of Private Acts of 1957, Chapter 372, as amended by any other act amendatory thereto; and Sections 6 and 9 of Private Acts of 1967, Chapter 400, as amended by any other act amendatory thereto, are repealed.
2. Private Acts of 1981, Chapter 82, amended Private Acts of 1945, Chapter 504, Section I (reproduced hereinabove), to raise the tax rate. The act required a referendum election to make the act operational, and it was not approved. In the context of special school districts, the practice of conditioning the effectiveness of an act or the imposition of a tax upon popular vote of those subject to the law has been declared unconstitutional in Gibson County Special School District v. Palmer, 691 S.W.2d 544 (Tenn. 1985). Private Acts of 1981, Chapter 182, removed the referendum requirement from the earlier 1981 amendment, making it effective upon its approval in the legislature.

Special School Districts - School Districts Which No Longer Exist

The following special school districts have been established in Gibson County at one time, but no longer exist. Those special school districts which were not taxing districts as of 1925 were abolished by Public Acts of 1925, Chapter 115, T.C.A. § 49-2-501. The following summaries indicate with an asterisk (*) those districts which had no taxing authority and were abolished by the 1925 act. A few special school districts were specifically abolished by repeal of the act under which they were created. The act required approval by 2/3 vote of the Quarterly County Courts in Gibson and Obion Counties, unless the courts determined that Article 11, Section 9 of the Tennessee Constitution did not require such approval. The act also made provisions for a referendum if the courts interpreted the new constitutional provision to require such approval.
13. Private Acts of 1967-68, Chapter 44, repealed Private Acts of 1959, Chapter 167, but the act provided that it would have no effect unless it received approval by 2/3 vote of the Quarterly County Court of Gibson County (does not mention Obion). The Secretary of State noted that the act was properly ratified and approved. The constitutionality of this act appears to have been later questioned.

- Public Acts of 1972, Chapter 491, abolished Mason Hall Special School District, distributed all remaining funds to the Boards of Education of Gibson and Obion Counties, and again repealed Private Acts of 1959, Chapter 167 in the event the first attempt was not effective.

2. Private Acts of 1949, Chapter 698, amended the 1947 act to change provisions relating to the Board of Trustees, to raise the authorized amount of bonds to $75,000 and to raise the tax rate to 50¢.
3. Private Acts of 1977, Chapter 25, amended the 1947 act with regard to the Board of Trustees, the school bonds, the tax provisions, and changed the boundary. This act contains an obvious typographical error by placing the amendatory language of Section 3, naming the trustees, in Section 2. The act was not to become effective until it received approval of the voters within the school district. This act was amended by Private Acts of 1977, Chapter 148, to make the act effective upon passage rather than submit it to a referendum vote. Chapter 148 contains a typographical error inasmuch as it purports to amend Private Acts of 1925, Chapter 25, rather than Chapter 25 of the 1977 act.
4. Private Acts of 1977, Chapter 148, amended Private Acts of 1977, Chapter 25, to reduce the face amount for each bond.
5. Private Acts of 1980, Chapter 340, amended the 1947 act to change the powers of the Board of Trustees, to change the boundary, and to change the tax rate to "not more than" 50¢. The effectiveness of this act was conditioned upon local ratification by the voters within the school district. The notation of the Secretary of State indicates that no local action was taken, and the act is not in force. However, the Tennessee Supreme Court has since held that the effectiveness of an act cannot constitutionally be conditioned upon local voter approval within a special school district. In Gibson County Special School District v. Palmer, 691 S.W.2d 544 (Tenn. 1985), the court applied the doctrine of elision to strike the local referendum requirement.
6. Private Acts of 1983, Chapter 62, amended Private Acts of 1949, Chapter 698, as previously amended, to lower the tax rate to "not more than" 35¢.
