Boundaries - Historical Notes

The private act has often been used as a means for transferring parcels of land from one county to another, often because the boundary lines would bisect an individual landowner's property, placing the landowner under the jurisdiction of two counties. This type of boundary change was often very general in its description of the land transferred, without any metes and bounds description. The following is a summary of acts which authorized boundary changes for Wilson County.

1. Acts of 1801, Chapter 37, extended the south boundary of the counties of Smith, Wilson, Davidson, Williamson and Robertson to the south boundary of the State of Tennessee.
2. Acts of 1801, Chapter 58, authorized the county courts of Wilson County and Davidson County to each appoint one surveyor who would have the power to run and designate the dividing line between the two counties as the same were delineated by Acts of 1801, Chapter 49. The Surveyors would be paid $2 for each day of service and were required to make a map of the line thus run and file it with the county court clerk.
3. Acts of 1803, Chapter 77, provided for surveyors to run the boundary line between Wilson County and Davidson County and between Wilson County and Rutherford County as directed by the General Assembly.
4. Acts of 1845-46, Chapter 137, moved the residence belonging to James King out of Wilson County and into Cannon County.
5. Acts of 1851-52, Chapter 302, changed the lines between Wilson County and Rutherford County so as to include the home and lands of John L. Percy wholly within Rutherford County.
